

Chris Devon, Senior Infrastructure and Regulatory Policy Developer at the California ISO, is an economist and policy specialist. Prior to joining the ISO in June of 2015, he was an economic analyst and energy markets advisor to the Michigan Public Service Commission for five years. Previously he represented Michigan interests in the stakeholder processes of the MISO and PJM Regional Transmission Organizations. Mr. Devon obtained his economics degree at Michigan State University.